Remarks

All prices are mentioned including exam fees or translator services. A price between brackets () means an optional item.

After two failed practice exam you will have to take 6h courses before being allowed to take a new practice exam and you will have to take this exam with the driving school. The Risk perception Test being the first part of the practice exam, a failure to this test counts towards this total. Therefore it is highly recommended to prepare well before taking any practice test.

The validity of the Risk Perception Test in Brussels is one year and is strictly regional. The Risk Perception Test in Wallonia or Flanders do not give access to the public road test in Brussels.

Be careful! Don't let your temporary license expire. An expired temporary license = 6h courses... or do all over again 3 years after the expiration. In addition to that, you will have to take 6h courses for every failed practice exam (unless you ask for an extended M12 driving license with a guide, in this case the double failure rule still applies).

(*1) For the licences with a training period starting prior to 01/11/2018 (date on the back of the license), the old rules are still applicable except the Risk perception test which is mandatory for all. Switching a M36 driving license to a M18 driving license (and vice versa), or asking an extended M12, do not modify this date.

(*2) If you have not taken the Theory exam in Brussels, you can't take the practical exam in Brussels.

In Flanders: The 30h formation does not exist, so there is no direct access to the exam but a 3 months training period with a M36 or M18 license.

In Wallonia: The 30h formation does exist, but our driving school is not allowed to accompany you for a practical exam in Wallonia. ! Under a M36 or M12 license, a pedagogical formation is mandatory for every student and his/her guides !

(*3) 30h practice at minimum and direct access to the practice exam. You may take the practice exam directly after 30 hours of practice minimum. There is no temporary driving license or training period, and you must take the practice exam with the driving school too. Mind the fact that you still have to successfully pass the exam... If you are skilled and/or able to handle the stress, it might be enough. If you failed, you could still get a temporary driving license (using the certificate of driving competence) and practice by yourself, the 30 hours lessons were then worth taking.

The price for 30h of practice lessons is:

(1770 €)
